⁺GENERAL NOTES: 1) Third party candidates are not included unless they are incumbents or until they have won their races. This has occurred in only a handful of cases. 2) Because some states hold state senate and/or state house elections every four years, comparisons between four year periods will generally reflect the same overall number of races (except in years with redistricting); comparisons between two year periods may not. For example, state senate elections are generally held every four years in KS, MI, MN, NM, SC. 3) Data reflect election results. Due to resignations, special elections, and appointments following the November elections, the number of women serving is not equal to the number of winners plus holdovers. For more information on women officeholders, see CAWP's fact sheet "Women in State Legislatures."

⁺⁺ Holdovers (officeholders not up for re-election).

*AL and MD hold state legislative (senate and house) elections every four years.

LA, MS, NJ, and VA generally hold state legislative (senate and house) elections in odd-numbered years. In 2010, NJ had a special state senate election.
